Discover Diablo Free Public Hike Series

Save Mount Diablo offers free public monthly guided hike opportunities with the purpose of building awareness of the importance of land conservation and permanently protecting open space for habitat, as well as recognizing the value of outdoor recreation, reaching new audiences and sparking passion for wild lands in the youngest of trail blazers. More than 900 people participated in our guided hikes in 2016.

Land Restoration and Stewardship

Save Mount Diablo acquires land and turns much of it over to park agencies. Before that happens, staff and volunteers do clean-up, fence building, trail construction, planting, watering and habitat restoration, creek clean-ups, non-native plant removal, and other work projects.

Conservation Collaboration Agreement

This new program at Save Mount Diablo is a collaboration with local schools with the goal of educating and connecting students with nature as well as raising awareness and resources to help protect the Mount Diablo area. In addition to learning about Save Mount Diablo and doing an environmental service project, students are given the opportunity to participate in a contemplative journal writing exercise, while alone in nature, and reflect on the question of “What is nature and what is my part in it?”

Diablo Trails Challenge (April 15, 2017)

The Diablo Trails Challenge has a run for everyone, from those hitting the trail for the first time to experienced ultra-runners with a 5k, 10k, Half Marathon and 50k run benefitting Save Mount Diablo. Hosted by Brazen Racing and benefitting Save Mount Diablo, the Diablo Trails Challenge is a fun community event which draws over 1,000 runners to the Diablo Foothills each year.

BioBlitz (March 24 & 25, 2017)

A bioblitz is a snapshot of biodiversity and is typically focused on newly preserved areas on Mount Diablo. This 24-hour event teams volunteer scientists, families, students, teachers, and other community members together to find and identify as many species of plants, animals, microbes, fungi, and other organisms as possible in a specific place.

Four Days Diablo (April 26-29, 2017)

Four Days Diablo is a “Gently Roughing It” camping trip that leads hikers on a 30-mile adventure through rarely seen Mount Diablo landscapes, including our very own Curry Canyon Ranch property. Along the way, hikers will be regaled with stories from local experts about the spectacular scenery and its natural and cultural history.

**Limited tickets available to Conservation Champion and Elite Defender Sponsors*

Mary Bowerman Science & Research Colloquium (December 2017)

Dr. Mary L. Bowerman, co-founder of Save Mount Diablo, was a botanist and a student of the flora of Mount Diablo for over seventy years. In her honor, Save Mount Diablo established the Mary Bowerman Science and Research Program in 2013. This yearly colloquium informs scientists, researchers, and the general public about discoveries in the Diablo Range.
